Business games

Players collaborate to make decisions, using strategic and tactical thinking, as well as their knowledge and experience. The result is the most optimal solution for the company, achieved through information sharing and collective decision-making. After the game, a debriefing is held, during which participants discuss their actions and decisions, and examine the reasons for the game's success or failure.

Business games are offered only in a corporate format. They can be combined with training.

Please contact the EY Business Academy coordinators for pricing information.
